

Scott M. Elliott
Undergraduate Scholarship Application

Scott Elliott established a $250,000 endowment shared equally among the Departments of Economics, Philosophy, and Sociology-Anthropology to advance the mission and vision of each Department. Mr. Elliott received his bachelor's degree in Economics in 1985. The Scott Elliott Undergraduate Scholarship was established to provide support to a student in economics who has exhibited academic excellence.

Value of Award: at least $1000, final amount determined by endowment performance

Eligibility: Economics majors with at least 75 hours of academic credit at the time of application. Applicants must also be enrolled for at least one semester following the semester in which they apply for the award. For instance, if a student applies in Spring 2018, s/he is eligible for this award even if they plan to graduate in December 2018. Preference will be given to applicants that have established an outstanding academic record. Though a student may apply for both the F. Russell Glasener-Economics Advisory Board Scholarship and the Scott M. Elliott Scholarship, a student cannot be selected for both scholarships in the same academic year.

Instructions: Submit completed application, course list, and essay to the Department of Economics (STV 425) by March 25, 2019. Type or clearly print the information requested.
